

Wave IP Subscription Program

Protect your investment.

A state-of-the-art business communications tool, your Vertical Wave IP system is engineered to grow with you, with the ability to easily add new features and enhancements via simple software upgrades. Protect this valuable investment with the cost-effective Wave IP Subscription Program to ensure you have access to the latest communications advances from Vertical throughout the life of your system.

Enhance and Maximize Your Investment

Wave IP delivers a suite of advanced business communications applications that go far beyond the capabilities of conventional phone systems. The Wave IP Subscription Program was developed to ensure that your Wave IP system will stay current with future enhancements and innovations. Each time Vertical updates its Wave applications – including the award-winning ViewPoint unified communications desktop call management tool, ViewPoint Mobile, visual voice mail, unified messaging, call recording, Wave Contact Center, Wave Call Classifier, WaveNet and other productivity-enhancing applications – customers enrolled in the Wave IP Subscription Program automatically receive the new software.

The Wave IP Subscription Program is the simplest and most cost-effective means of protecting your Wave IP investment. It not only ensures you have access to the latest technology and advanced Vertical applications, but maximizes the return on your communications investment year after year without any costly and time-consuming forklift upgrades.

With the Wave IP Subscription Program, new features and updated support for your Wave system can be easily implemented via simple software upgrades.

Get More. Spend Less.

As a Wave IP subscriber, you get immediate access to new Wave IP features and technologies as they become available – and at significant savings over the cost of purchasing them individually as a non-subscription customer. Vertical's Wave IP software subscription program can be purchased on a one- or five-year basis, ensuring your Wave system continues to deliver the best return on your investment over the long term.
